Cardiff beach is a shore thing

CARDIFF residents and visitors are being told to have their sunglasses and sun cream at the ready as Roald Dahl Plass is transformed into an urban beach as part of the Cardiff Festival.

Now in its 28th year, the 2013 festival, which gets bigger and better each year, is joining the likes of Paris, Berlin and Prague by creating a beach in the heart of the bay.

The urban beach, which will be open during the summer holidays, will see the popular Roald Dahl Plass transformed into a seaside oasis complete with deck chairs, decking areas, giant parasols as well as a child-friendly beach with a sand pit and shallow water play area.

Live music and entertainment by local music and dance groups will be provided to give a carnival atmosphere alongside a mixture of traditional rides, attractions and stalls while for the more energetic types the beach will have goal posts and volleyball nets for beach soccer and beach volleyball tournaments.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Culture and Leisure, Councillor Huw Thomas, said: "It's important that new ideas are developed for the Cardiff Festival to keep it fresh and interesting.

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by Council employees. This month Maddalena Fabrizi, Cardiff Market Manager, talks to Capital Times.

I'M situated in the clock tower of Cardiff Market and I have a bird's eye view of the bustling market.

Cardiff Market has been trading since the 1700s and has been occupying the site here in the Hayes for the last 100 years. It's amazing to be a part of such an institution. For the last seven and a half years I have worked as the market's manager.

I work closely with the tenants to help with any queries they may have, regularly paying visits to their stalls. I have developed good relationships with them, with many stalls being in the same families for generations.

Along with meeting existing tenants I also meet potential tenants and place them on the enquiries list. When a unit becomes vacant it is my managers and I who process the applications.

We have a variety of businesses available to attract visitors. Recently a vintage clothing stall has opened and this has brought something new to the market. There is so much available here at the market and it has something for everyone.

Alongside our regulars we have lots of tourists visiting us here at the market and they always give us such positive feedback.

I oversee a team of six staff and between us we look after the day-to-day running of the market, including security and cleaning.

The market has a superb atmosphere all year round, with each season bringing a fresh new look, with seasonal items being sold providing new sights and smells. My favourite season by far is Christmas - nothing quite beats the festive atmosphere and it is the stall holders busiest time of year. We open the market for longer on weekdays and also open on Sundays.

One of my favourite parts of the role is meeting people, from the regulars to famous faces.

The market has some great characters coming through the doors. As a famous landmark we also have a lot of requests from television production companies to film here. My claim to fame is having a hug from Olivia Newton John who was recording a programme for BBC about her Welsh roots a few years back.

X Factor, Britain's Got Talent and many more have all been through our doors over the years and I know it provides a great buzz amongst traders.

As I am regularly told the market is a great place to visit and in my opinion it's a great place to work too. It's a real gem in the city and I'm so grateful that I am a part of this impressive historic Cardiff institution.

Project receives thumbs up from jobseekers

BUTETOWN Councillor Ali Ahmed joined Welsh Government Finance Minister Jane Hutt in visiting a local project on its first anniversary.

More than 200 people have registered with Cardiff Council's BEST (Employment Support and Training Service) project, based in Loudoun Square, which aims to help people in Butetown find employment.

The European Union funded project provides advice and guidance on employment and starting up a business as well as training and skills opportunities.

It is part of the wider Butetown regeneration scheme which has seen improvements to the area such as a new Youth Pavilion and Community Centre.

Many of the young people attending the Youth Pavilion have also been able to find out about BEST and access the support on offer to improve their chances of finding a job.

One participant, 16-year-old Sean Watkins, took part in the Coffee Lounge Project - an innovative training package delivered by the BEST focusing on food hygiene, customer service and making coffee in partnership with local coffee shops.

Sean was unemployed having left school with a few GCSEs. The support offered through BEST enabled him to gain a range of skills and qualifications helping him secure a job at Italigo - a new start-up fast food company based in the city centre.

He said: "Before attending the Coffee Lounge project, I was looking for a job, but it was very difficult as I didn't have much experience or qualifications. The BEST Centre team believed in me and I was motivated to attend, walking for 45 minutes and being the first to arrive every day. I'm glad I completed the course."

BEST also offers volunteering opportunities for those who want to gain vital experience to improve their chances of future employment. After completing a health and social care course, 26-year-old Emma Hendrickson, who is also a mother-of-three, now volunteers at the BEST Centre twice a week.

She said: I had never thought of admin as a career, I've always looked for cleaning or caring jobs, but the BEST has given me the confidence to pursue a new avenue and volunteering with them has been great. A year ago I never thought I would be in this position."

Councillor Ahmed, said: "I am delighted to see the opportunities that are being given to people in Butetown through this brilliant project to better their lives."

- BEST can help local jobseekers to access training and employment opportunities. They are also interested in working with local employers to provide skilled applicants for their recruitment needs. For more information please call the BEST Centre on 029 2087 3563.

Cardiff Pointes the way for new development

THE first stage in an exciting multi-million pound development at the International Sports Village (ISV) has begun.

The new development near Cardiff International White Water will include a new Olympic standard, twin pad ice arena and a sustainable residential quarter consisting of around 800 new homes.

Speaking at the launch event Cardiff Council Leader, Councillor Heather Joyce said: "This is a fantastic investment in our city, and will undoubtedly make a massive contribution to the future of Cardiff's economy.

"During the Council elections just over a year ago, I made clear that my administration would make Cardiff open for business again and work with business partners to make the city a truly international destination. The ISV project is a great example of that ambition."

The council is working with Greenbank Partnerships Limited and its subsidiary companies Helium Miracle 113 and Figurehead Homes on the new development.

The latest phase in the ISV development is underway, comprising of two main elements:

A new Olympic standard, twin pad ice arena built with seating for 3,000 spectators. The two-storey venue will be home to the Cardiff Devils ice hockey team and will also be open to the public for skating and other sporting events.

Cardiff Pointe a new £200m sustainable residential quarter on the Grangetown peninsula. The scheme was granted planning permission in March 2013 and will consist of 640 houses and apartments. There will also be an additional 160 affordable housing units on sites nearby.

Future stages will also include a 150m indoor ski-slope; one of the world's largest indoor snow play centres; a stunning mixed-use tower that will be the tallest in Wales; gallery space; a hotel, retail outlets, housing and office accommodation.

Councillor Joyce added: "This development will not only look fantastic but will also create thousands of jobs, attract tens of thousands more visitors to the city and provide homes - including affordable homes - for people in Cardiff. The end results will be state-of-the-art facilities that everyone can use, including, crucially, two ice rinks which will provide a new home for the Cardiff Devils and offer people a range of winter sports to try out. This will all go a long way to enhancing Cardiff's reputation as a world-class sporting capital city."

Go with the flow on Cardiff's latest attraction

THE latest exciting addition to the International Sports Village has opened at Cardiff International White Water (CIWW).

The new FlowRider machine offers indoor surfing all year round for novices and pros and promises to be another popular attraction for Cardiff Bay.

The FlowRider at CIWW offers double the fun as two people can bodyboard at the same time, offering friends and families the opportunity to go head to head to be king or queen of the waves.

The centre's team have undergone advance training to be on hand to instruct those riding the waves and enable individuals and groups to enjoy the pleasures of body boarding and surfing on a soft surface and in a safe environment.

At the official opening of The FlowRider, guests were treated to a demonstration of its capabilities by professional surfers including European Junior Flowrider Champion Sam Atkins, European Senior Flowrider Finalist Tom Booth, and European Bodyboarding Finalist Charlie Wright.

Councillor Russell Goodway, Cabinet Member for Finance, Business and Local Economy, who attended the opening, said: "Indoor surfing at Cardiff International White Water is the latest part of the International Sports Village development which is a great example of how Cardiff Council and partners are working together to achieve the city's vision for the regeneration of the old docklands, and creating a thriving leisure destination offering something for everyone.

"Indoor Surfing is the only one of its kind in Wales, and can be enjoyed by beginners and board sport enthusiasts alike."

He added: "Since opening in 2010, Cardiff International White Water has already achieved so much, winning awards and hosting international events. Indoor surfing adds another dimension to its great appeal."

"I'm sure the beach will be a fantastic new addition to the festival programme and will provide a great free day out for residents and visitors.

"Roald Dahl Plass was created to be used as an events space and we are delighted to have reached an agreement with organisers to host this free-to-access attraction at no cost to the Council. This will be a great place to enjoy a party atmosphere, hear some great live music, and hopefully get a suntan to boot."

Other highlights of this year's festival include the Cardiff International Food and Drink Festival, which takes place from Friday 12 July to Sunday 14 July. the Cardiff Carnival takes to the city centre streets on August 10 and the Cardiff Harbour Festival welcomes the return of Extreme Sailing to Cardiff Bay on the August Bank Holiday.

Councillor Thomas added: "As a Council we are working closely with private and public partners to create an exciting Cardiff Festival which does not solely rely on Council funding. This summer we have created a diverse summer programme which offers new days out for people to enjoy. With many great events, performers and venues lined up to showcase Cardiff at its best, this year's festival will provide a perfect summer in the capital."

News in brief

Japanese schools visit

PUPILS from Cantonian High School and Ysgol Gyfun Gymraeg Plasmawr welcomed exchange students from Japan on a visit to the Welsh capital in March.

Students from five junior high schools from the city of Sakai spent time in both schools during their Cardiff stay and were treated to a glimpse of Welsh culture in assemblies, a Welsh cookery class and a twmpath. The Japanese staff visited Cardiff Castle, took a boat trip along the river Taff and a tour around the Senedd.

The five Japanese schools each presented very different cultural displays on their visit to Plasmawr before pupils took part in a farewell assembly featuring Welsh clog dancing and singing. The exchange will continue next year with another visit from the Japanese students before 25 students from Plasmawr and Cantonian travel to Sakai in July 2014.

Cardiff High praised in report

CARDIFF High School has been highly praised in a recent inspection report which concluded that the school was performing excellently.

The school in Llandennis Road, Cyncoed, was inspected recently by Estyn, as part of a national programme of school inspection.

The purpose of inspection is to identify good features and shortcomings in schools in order that they may improve the quality of education offered and raise the standards achieved by their pupils.

The report on Cardiff High concluded that the standards achieved by pupils are consistently very high and well above expectations; attendance is very good; the quality of teaching is consistently high and pupils behave exceptionally well, having a well-developed sense of responsibility.

The report also highlighted the quality of care, support and guidance provided by the school and said that "the inclusive ethos of the school contributes significantly to pupils' positive attitudes to learning and very strong outcomes."

Inspectors commented that Cardiff High's prospects for improvement were also excellent as the leadership at the school was "outstanding".

Cardiff High headteacher Steve Jones said: "We are delighted with Estyn's findings. The staff at Cardiff High School work extremely hard and we are always trying to improve our practice in the classroom. We have an excellent relationship with pupils, parents and the community and this contributes to our fantastic pupil outcomes."

Cabinet Member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Councillor Julia Magill, said: "I am delighted that Cardiff High has been acknowledged by Estyn as an excellent school. Children and young people going to Cardiff High achieve excellent results in a school with a very good ethos. This gives them a tremendous head start in terms of life chances. I would like to congratulate Headteacher Steve Jones and everyone involved at the school for achieving such a glowing report from Estyn."

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Matthew Harris will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

JULY

CARDIFF'S spectacular parks make this one of the greenest cities in the UK, and in many cases wildlife is easy to spot. Other plants and animals, though, are just as intriguing but take a bit more effort to find.

So to encourage us to look more closely, Cardiff Council has launched a series of Wildlife Explorers Trails in some of the parks and nature reserves around the city.

A series of posts have been installed throughout these parks with metal plaques showing wildlife that can be seen in that area. These plaques can be used for making rubbings in the Wildlife Explorers Trail booklets.

They're great fun for kids, so if you're looking for ideas to get out in the fresh air over the summer holidays, and to learn more about our wildlife at the same time, why not download the trail sheets from our website www.cardiff.gov.uk/biodiversity, or get in touch with us by emailing biodiversity@cardiff.gov.uk and we can send them to you.

I'll be back next month with more biodiversity attractions.

Marland House Advice Hub officially launched

MARLAND House Advice Hub has been officially launched by the Cabinet Member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, Councillor Lynda Thorne.

The new hub is staffed by a number of Council advisors who are available to help people with a wide range of enquiries ranging from their finances, benefits, housing, Council Tax and consumer issues to problems they may have with their gas and electricity bills. The Citizens Advice Bureau and Somali Progressive Association are also permanently based at the new hub, with representatives from the Credit Union, Want to Work, Shelter and many other organisations available to offer help and support.

Councillor Thorne said: "It is an honour to be opening the new Advice Hub at Marland House which will act as an important place for people who need support. It is so vital that the Council does everything it can to help people who are facing difficulties, including those who have been affected by the Government's Welfare Reform Programme."

- The new service is available on the first floor of Marland House (next to the bus station). Opening times are: Monday to Wednesday 8.45am until 5pm. Thursday 10am to 6.30 pm and Friday 8.45am til 5pm.

A new lease of life for Rumney Recreation Ground

RUMNEY Recreation Ground has undergone an impressive and exciting refurbishment, which has injected new life into the much-loved outdoor space.

The project has been a joint partnership between the Council's Park Services, Vision 21 and Wales Probation and includes a brand new, state-of-the-art play area.

The play area has benefitted from an investment of £50,000 through the Council's Capital Programme. Work includes two separate zones for toddlers and children and the installation of new equipment including a tubular slide, two sets of swings, two multi-units and a free-ride swinging item which imitates surfing. The area also boasts new surfacing and graphics.

Vision 21 has been responsible for refurbishing the park furniture, bringing benches back to their former glory and Wales Probation has restored and renewed the railings at the site including sanding and painting.

Both organisations have formed unique partnerships with Cardiff Council's Park Services and in doing so have completed several projects including the works at Rumney Recreation Ground.

Phil Martin, Community Payback Team Manager at Wales Probation, said: "We're delighted to be able to support Cardiff Council with its refurbishment of Rumney Recreation Ground.

"Community Payback is designed to be challenging but also worthwhile. The offenders working on this project are putting something back into the community at the same time as learning new skills and improving their employment prospects. We hope the local community will be able to enjoy the park and its new facilities for many years to come."

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "Rumney Recreation Ground is treasured by local residents and visitors alike and this latest refurbishment scheme will provide the local community with a space to further cherish and be proud of.

"Partnerships formed with Vision 21 and Wales Probation have allowed vital works to be carried out which not only benefit Cardiff's green spaces but also provide the opportunity for people to gain knowledge and experience in our wonderful parks.

"Partnership projects such as this, assist the Council in maintaining these valuable open spaces which can be enjoyed by people of all ages for generations to come and we are grateful for the efforts from all those involved."

Time to take a Centenary Walk

THE much-used Centenary Walk has undergone a revamp to update it with details of the changes to the city over the past few years .

The walk has also had QR codes installed to enable people to download the route onto mobile phones and access it remotely.

The walk, which is over two miles long and takes in some of the city's most historic landmarks including the Millennium Stadium and City Hall, was opened in 2005 to help mark Cardiff's centenary as a city.

The new QR codes are on way markers that can be found across the city in various iconic places including the Old Library, Cardiff Market, the Millennium Stadium and Cardiff Castle among others. The codes mean that people in Cardiff can now begin the Centenary Walk from wherever they are in the city with hard copies of the updated walk still available from the Tourist Information Centre on The Hayes.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Culture and Leisure, Councillor Huw Thomas, said: "The Centenary Walk is well used by both visitors and residents in Cardiff so it's important that not only is the information as up to date as possible but we are using the latest technology to make it easily accessible.

"Cardiff is a great place to live and it is always changing, as it evolves it's very important that we make sure these changes are recorded in the Centenary Walk to bring it right up to date."

- For more information visit www.cardiff.gov.uk/centenarywalk

News in brief

Baden Powell Primary receives award

A Cardiff primary school has been recognised by a national accreditation scheme established to acknowledge the work schools and other settings do with families to achieve better outcomes for children.

Baden Powell Primary School in Splott has been working towards gaining the award since September and is one of the first schools in Cardiff to achieve an Investors in Families mark for the work it does to engage parents in school life. The school's Parents in Partnership (Pip) project makes sure that all parents have opportunities to be involved in their children's learning and education, and recognises that schools and families should work together for the full benefit of a child.

Food for thought

CHILDREN and staff at St Cuthbert's Primary School have carried out a successful food collection to donate to the hungry.

The food has been donated to Foodbank who provide nutritionally balanced emergency food to help people who so often are faced with the reality of not being able to feed themselves or their families.

Foodbank, which is the new Lord Mayor's charity, relies totally on schools, charities, churches and other organisations for donations of food and the children and staff of St Cuthbert's were proud to have made such a great effort in collecting food for such a worthy cause.

Bakery with a difference opens for business

THE smell of fresh bread baking has the power to make the mouth water and even sell a house, according to old wives' tales.

But for students and staff at Cathays High School, the aroma has become a regular feature wafting around the school corridors as every other Thursday, Y Popty bakery is open for business.

Three Autism Spectrum Condition (ASC) Year 12 students - Jacob Meighhan, Markos Arakas and Mike Munro - have been steadily building up their client base since the start of the project in which they prepare, bake and deliver their wares themselves.

The three students spend each Popty session preparing the bread all by hand and are able to bake up to 24 loaves and 40 rolls in one session. Wholemeal, white plaited and cottage loaves are available and the most popular product is the olive ciabatta roll. The project started in a small way as the students baked bread for their parents but now, staff at Cathays are able to place their orders and have their freshly baked bread delivered at school.

Through the hard work of Jacob, Markos and Mike, almost £200 was raised at Y Popty over the autumn term which was donated to Llamau and Barnardo's Ely Familes Project. And for St David's Day, a further £130 was raised for the National Autism Society as the budding bakers produced 50 staff packed lunches including rolls and bara brith.

Cathays High staff members have given Y Popty their seal of approval. Teaching assistant Jen Hall said: "The bread is really lovely and I look forward to the ciabatta rolls every two weeks, and so do my family."

Teaching assistant Keely Desmond added: "It's great to buy and then eat warm, delicious, fresh bread baked that morning for my lunch."

Saddle up for another exciting Cardiff Cycle Festival

THE Cardiff Cycle Festival returns in June for a two week celebration of all that is good about two wheeled travel and to encourage more people to take up this healthy, sustainable mode of transport.

Now in its third year the festival promises to be bigger and better than ever with a host of events taking place across the city between June 15 and 30. From the regular rider to the occasional pleasure cyclist, the festival will have something for everyone as it seeks to help people to discover the joys of cycling.

One person who certainly enjoys cycling around Cardiff is Barry Sullivan. Originally from New York, Barry has lived in Cardiff for the past eight years. Three years ago he decided to trade in the four wheels of the family car for four bicycles instead.

Barry explains: "The annual cost of motoring was building up and when I considered the kind of journeys we were making, the obvious and practical solution was to get on my bike. I've visited Amsterdam and was inspired by the great number of people there who go about their every-day lives using bicycles to get around. Being a keen adventure cyclist, it was an easy decision to make to turn to cycling on a day to day basis.

"I have to admit though, that it took a bit of time convincing my wife but since we made the decision, we haven't looked back."

These days Barry can often be seen around the city with his one-year old and five-year old on board his Workcycle, a popular cycle used in Amsterdam.

"I cycle to take my five year old to school each day and drop my one year old to nursery using the bike and both my children love travelling around. My wife has also become a bit of a cycling evangelist lately, encouraging her family and friends to give up their cars for what we see as being a more convenient commuter," said Barry.

He added: "I hope that many people will be inspired themselves by seeing how well it works for my family."

Barry believes events like the Cardiff Cycle Festival are important because not only does it help promote cycling, but also helps to change attitudes towards cycling.

"Anything that builds awareness and promotes cycling is a great thing. Over the last three years I have really seen a change in the attitude towards cycling in the city and you see many more bikes on the road now. It seems to me that people really are beginning to recognise the financial, health and sustainability benefits of cycling," added Barry.

Included in the many and varied events planned during the two week festival are bike building races, Dr Bike sessions, cycle training, cycle lunches, bike rides and more. This year there will also be a Festival HQ in the Royal Arcade where you can find more information about all the events and enter our art competition.

Cabinet Member for Strategic Planning, Highways, Traffic and Transportation, Cllr Ralph Cook, said: "The Cardiff Cycle Festival is a fun, informative event that seeks to encourage people to take up cycling. As Barry and his family have shown, cycling is a viable travel option around the city and with the Council committed to Enfys - our strategic plan for improving cycling infrastructure, it can only get better".

The Cardiff Story wants your telegrams

THE Cardiff Story Museum has teamed up with the Science Museum in London for an exciting national project to find interesting and unusual telegrams.

The Science Museum is opening a brand new communications gallery in 2014 called Information Age, celebrating key developments in communication technologies over the last 200 years.

As part of the gallery development, the museum is working in partnership with organisations and volunteers across the UK to collect examples of historical and contemporary information that reveal the personal accounts of those who were directly impacted by significant events in the history of communication and information technology.

The Cardiff Story Museum has been chosen as the representative from Wales and our group of volunteers needs your help to find telegrams sent or received in Cardiff.

Before long distance telephone services were affordable, telegrams were the only way to convey information quickly over very long distances. This made them ideal for making big milestone announcements – like births, marriages and deaths – to friends and family, whether they were at home or abroad, conducting trans-Atlantic business deals, or conveying national and international news.

Much like Twitter, the popular networking site, telegrams could only carry a limited amount of information and had to tell a story with a small number of words. This meant that telegrams were really something special and held only the most important news. Receiving one would have been an exciting, or tragic, event, bringing the whole family together.

The Science Museum's exhibition will include a display about the development of the telegram from Morse-coded messages to the electric telegram, first used by Great Western Railway in 1845 to catch a suspected murderer.

Greetings telegrams (a standardised, illustrated telegram) later became a popular option after their introduction in Britain in the 1930s and telegrams played a key role in both World Wars.

Our team of volunteers at The Cardiff Story Museum are seeking telegrams which record personal and local events connected to Cardiff. You may have received a telegram on a special occasion or have one associated with a big event in Cardiff such as Cardiff City winning the FA cup in 1927. If you have an old telegram stored in your attic, stashed under the stairs or hidden in an old shoe box with an interesting story to go with it then our team of volunteers want to hear from you.

• If you have any telegrams you would like to tell us about there will be an open day at the Cardiff Story Museum on Saturday, July 13. To find out more, please contact the Telegram Team on 029 2078 8208 or email cardiffstory@cardiff.gov.uk

Have your say on the Ely / Caerau Community Hub

CARDIFF Council is looking at options for a new Community Hub in Ely / Caerau and we want your views on what services and activities it should provide.

The Hub programme is part of the council's commitment to invest in neighbourhood facilities and to improve face to face services.

The Community Hub project aims to deliver services and activities from one building which will offer high quality, cost effective services for the future.

Please come along to the drop in sessions below to discuss your views with the Council staff and fill in a survey about what services you and your family would use.

If you are unable to attend the drop in sessions then you can have your say by filling in the online survey at www.surveys.cardiff.gov.uk/elycaerauhub

This survey will be available on-line from the June 3. The deadline for submitting surveys is Monday, July 15.

If you have any questions or would like the survey in any other format, contact Rashmi Wilson by emailling r.wilson@cardiff.gov.uk or calling 029 2087 3535.

News in brief

Don't forget to enter Cardiff In Bloom

IS your garden already blooming? Or is it ready to burst into flower? It's time for you to enter Cardiff in Bloom, and the closing date is soon – July 5.

If you want to enter Cardiff in Bloom this year, your efforts will be rewarded in a slightly different way. Instead of just having 1st and 2nd prize in each class, everyone who scores over 50 marks will get a medal, Bronze, Silver, Silver Gilt or Gold. You will know how good your garden is, and know where to improve for next year.

There is also now a class for Novice Gardeners, so if you're new to gardening, there is still a place for you in the competition, to ease yourself in gently.

For full details of the changes this year, the list of classes and the entry form, please go to www.cardiff.gov.uk /bloom or contact 02920 684000.

Cathays High scores well in inspection report

CATHAYS High School has been judged to be a good school with good prospects for improvement, according to its latest Estyn inspection report.

The report highlights the school's strong performance at key stage 4, pupils' positive attitudes towards the school community and teachers' efforts to ensure positive learning environments in lessons.

Headteacher, Rod Phillips, said: "I am delighted that Estyn has re-confirmed the judgement made in their previous inspection in 2007 that we are a good school. This is testament to the dedication, hard work and commitment of our staff, students, parents, governors past and present over many years. We remain proud to be a truly inclusive school committed to opportunities for all."

Charity bounce

PUPILS and staff at Gabalfa Primary School have been jumping for joy after raising almost £1,000 for Velindre Hospital.

Children from the nursery class to Year 6 were joined by teachers on a bouncy castle in the school hall in a sponsored bounce when they raised £944 for the local hospital.

Leisure Centres win Healthy Awards

WESTERN Leisure Centre has achieved a gold award in the Healthy Options Award Scheme.

The scheme aims to reward caterers who make it easier for their customers to make healthy choices when eating out.

The award encourages food businesses to provide healthier options to customers, through the use of healthier catering practices, increasing fruit, vegetables and starchy carbohydrates, as well as decreasing fat, especially saturated fat, sugar and salt. It also recognises provision of healthy options for children, rewards staff training, promotion and marketing of healthier options.

Changes made by the centre have included adding fresh fruit and raisin packs to the menu, substituting full-fat mayonnaise for a low fat version, providing the choice of white or wholemeal bread and making half-size portions available.

Advertising relating to the new changes has been implemented, fizzy drinks are no longer available at the counter and menu prices have been set to compete with local fast food outlets.

Fairwater Leisure Centre has achieved a silver award and Llanishen Leisure Centre has achieved a bronze, both facilities have received recommendations and will work towards making further changes in order to achieve gold awards in the future.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "This is a great achievement for Western Leisure Centre and the staff who have worked alongside Cardiff Council's Health Improvement Team in order to make changes which benefit customers who use the facility.

"A balanced and nutritious diet goes hand-in-hand with fitness and exercise so changes are being made across all our leisure centres to ensure we provide and promote healthy eating amongst our customers. This follows NHS Wales' guidance on healthier eating and helps encourage people to make healthier choices."

Festival promises to be a co-operative delight

HAVE a fun day out for free at the Choose Co-operative Festival.

Taking place from Saturday, June 29 (9am-6pm) to Sunday, June 30 (9am-4pm) in the grounds of the SWALEC Stadium, the event will feature a number of activities designed to promote the co-operative business model.

This will include a public exhibition including food tasting and sampling, a kitchen demonstration area using co-operative and fair trade produce, and games and activities for children.

People attending the festival can also attend workshops and take part in discussions on ethical business practices the success of community owned shops, pubs and even sports clubs.

Local suppliers will be on hand selling co-operative produce, including food and clothing, and people can also enjoy live music as well as other entertainment with games and activities to keep children entertained.

Alongside the entertainment will be a conference looking at 'The Business of Co-operation' and the environment that co-operatives operate in. The Welsh Government's work on the Co-operative and Mutuals Commission for Wales will be discussed and Chuka Umunna MP, Shadow Secretary for Business, Innovation and Skills will discuss the national impact of co-operatives.

Ed Mayo, Secretary General of Co-operatives UK, who have organised the festival, said: "We are delighted to be coming to Cardiff and very excited about holding our national conference at a co-operative venue – the SWALEC stadium. We want to provide a fun and stimulating environment for visitors and hope that they will learn a bit more about the fantastic work that Co-operatives do.

He added: "Our Congress is at the heart of the co-operative movement's national campaign, co-operatives Fortnight – and Cardiff is our flagship public event."

Maelfa Shopping Centre set for £20m redevelopment

A multi-million pound redevelopment scheme for the Maelfa Shopping Centre in Llanedeyrn has moved a step closer with the selection of a development company to take the project forward.

Cardiff Council has appointed the Maelfa Regeneration Partnership as preferred developer following a national advertisement inviting tenders for this exciting £20m redevelopment opportunity.

The Maelfa Regeneration Partnership is led by Bouygues Development, who have teamed up with Cardiff Community Housing Association, United Welsh Housing Association, Persimmon Homes, Leadbitter, and architects Austin Smith Lord. Bouygues Development and Leadbitter are part of the Bouygues Construction group.

The scheme will involve the demolition of the existing out-dated shopping centre, and the construction of new shops, homes and community facilities, including a new library and community hub.

Councillor Lynda Thorne, Cabinet Member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, said: "I am pleased that a company with the experience, expertise and stature of Bouygues Development has been selected to take forward this much needed regeneration scheme. The project will deliver a bright new centre for the community and provide the facilities and services it desperately needs."

Nicolas Guérin, Managing Director of Bouygues Development, added: "We are delighted to have secured the opportunity to work with the local community in Llanedeyrn and Cardiff Council in delivering this long-awaited regeneration. We have assembled a genuinely first class team to ensure that a vibrant new heart to Maelfa can become a deserved reality."

Cardiff Council will now finalise its legal terms with Bouygues Development so that it may proceed with detailed planning work on the scheme. It is anticipated the work could start on site next year subject to planning consent.

Goal of the Season worth the Waite

THOMAS Waite who plays for Cardiff City FC's Down 's Syndrome team has been recognised for his excellent goal scoring ability by picking up the Club Goal of the Season award, for his great individual strike against Moorside Rangers of Manchester.

He fought off some strong competition from the women's team and the first team in Danielle Broadhurst and Craig Conway respectively, the latter being the goal that secured the championship title for Cardiff City.

Voting culminated with 650 guests and VIPs making their decision at Cardiff City's champions dinner to celebrate the clubs recent success. Thomas finished with a lead of over 200 votes and received the award and recognition from the wide Cardiff City community.

Thomas played a huge part in the Down's Syndrome football team's success this year. He was voted player of the tournament and scored 11 goals at the DSActive Premier League festival in West Bromwich in March. His performance and selfless leadership within the team all year made him a worthy recipient of such a prestigious award.

Chris McDermott who leads the disability football programme at Cardiff City said: "I am absolutely over the moon for Thomas. He deserves this award, not just for a fantastic goal, but the great contribution he has made in the last three years since the establishment our DSActive team. It truly is an award for all involved with the delivery of disability football at Cardiff City, because without the support we have, achievements of this scale would not be possible."

£1,000 of Twenty20 tickets to be won

TWENTY20 cricket returns to Cardiff next month with Glamorgan in action against Warwickshire Bears under the SWALEC Stadium floodlights, on July 3.

Five lucky Capital Times readers have the chance to book their place with a friend to see the team in action this year with complimentary tickets for each one of Glamorgan's home games.

The Welsh county have Friday night home matches against Somerset (July 12) and Northants Steelbacks (July 26). Fixtures against both Worcestershire Royals (July 23) and Gloucestershire (July 30) are scheduled either side of the Northants game, complete three games in seven days at the end of the group phase.

This summer is full of top class cricket, with the ICC Champions Trophy coming to Cardiff, the eleventh season of Twenty20, and the visit of Australia to the Welsh capital following the Ashes Series for a One-Day International.

Glamorgan are celebrating 125 years since their formation in 2013 and to mark the 20-year anniversary of their first one-day success when they won the Sunday League with the likes of Viv Richards, Matthew Maynard and Hugh Morris amongst their ranks, the team will wear retro 1993 blue and yellow kit once again.

Winning a pair of tickets will give you and a friend the chance to enter the home of Welsh cricket to see all-action entertainment, as some of the best in world cricket go head-to-head.

Twenty20 cricket is renowned for its hard-hitting, fast paced entertainment, and this year with all games starting at 6.30pm under floodlights the atmosphere will be fantastic.

To enter the competition, please answer the following question: "Who hosted last year's Friends Life Twenty20 Finals Day?"

Send your answer plus your full name, email address and phone contact details to: Capital Times, Room 422, County hall, Cardiff, CF10 4UW.

Terms and Conditions

Only one entry per person. Winners must be over 16 years old. Winners will be notified no later than June 30. 5 x (1 pair) of tickets will be available for each winner to see each one of the five home fixtures in Cardiff. No refunds permitted.

Glamorgan Archives reveals winning stories

GLAMORGAN Archives has announced the winning stories that have been selected as part of the 'Tell Us Your Story' campaign.

Users of Welsh archives were asked to submit a story about their experiences and discoveries as a result of using the service.

The winning entry from Cardiff People First shows that Archives are accessible to everyone. Members of Cardiff People First visited Glamorgan Archives to undertake research as part of their Ely Hospital Project. Their story told how they made use of the Archive's services and the documents it holds. The photographs used to tell their story, and the documents they consulted during their research, formed part of a exhibition they staged at The Cardiff Story museum.

Another competition winner was Steve Evans. A teacher at Glyn Derw High School, Steve visited Glamorgan Archives with a group of year 7 students. His entry, which was in comic strip format, shows how the Archives can help both the students to learn as well as the teachers to deliver this learning.

Several children from Lakeside Primary School together wrote the other winning story. They visited Glamorgan Archives as part of their celebration of the school's 50th anniversary. Their entry shows how accessible the Archives are for children of all ages and how they can be used for specific school projects such as this.

Nicola Williams, Marketing Project Officer and one of the judges, said: "We were very pleased to receive stories from a wide range of users across Wales. They vary from personal family revelations and local history finds to stories from lecturers, teachers, students, pupils and volunteers. Some of the stories are very moving and others demonstrate how the service has helped them to acquire new skills and sparked new interests. I would like to thank everyone for telling us their stories."

A total of 77 entries were received and 22 winning stories have been selected, each winning £100. Some of the winning stories from across Wales will be brought to life in short films showcasing the variety of records, photographs and documents that can be accessed free of charge by your local archive service.

The three main winners were presented with their prizes at Glamorgan Archives.

Cricket fans converge for Festival of World Cricket in Cardiff

THE ICC Champions Trophy tournament comes to a climax over the coming days, as Cardiff, London and Birmingham host the final stages of the showpiece competition.

The world's top-eight one-day international nations have been contesting the tournament, including superstars of the game such as Chris Gayle, Alastair Cook, MS Dhoni, Michael Clarke, Brendon McCullum, Dale Steyn and Lasith Malinga.

The ICC Champions trophy Semi-Final is the perfect way to enjoy top class international cricket this summer. With ticket prices starting from £30 for adults and £5 for juniors and are selling fast.

With all the participating nations hosting community days throughout the tournament, children from across South Wales have had the chance to receive one-to-one coaching with some of the greats of the world.

What's more, thanks to the partnership between ECB, Glamorgan Cricket and Sport.Cardiff, school children have also been involved in the opening ceremony, welcoming the teams into action with Guard of Honour presentations, as well as attending the match days free of charge and entertaining the crowds with cricket demonstrations during interval breaks.

Through this partnership, Sport.Cardiff and Glamorgan Cricket are investing heavily in developing cricket in the community with a focus on increasing participation in local and junior clubs.

The tournament has provided mouth-watering fixtures, but with the curtain about to fall as the semi-final in Cardiff approaches, supporters need to act quickly in order to watch the world's best cricketers in action.

ICC Chief Executive David Richardson said: "We have been delighted with the interest shown in the tournament which provides cricket followers with the unique opportunity to see live the world's top 50-over cricketers play for national pride as well as the ICC Champions Trophy 2013.

"Once again the ICC is partnering with ThinkWise, along with Room to Read to continue promoting both the importance of HIV and AIDS awareness and the education of children around the globe.

"We are also happy to welcome Chance to Shine, an ECB supported initiative run by the Cricket Foundation to help continue building a legacy of promoting cricket and creating opportunities amongst the younger generations in England and Wales."

• Tickets can be purchased from Glamorgan Cricket Ticket Office at the SWALEC Stadium or by visiting www.icc-cricket.com

Awards for tidy volunteers

CATHAYS High School has been presented with a Tidy Wales Award Trophy and £250 for their efforts to make their local area a better place to live.

The annual Tidy Wales Awards scheme, which this year were sponsored by Environment Agency Wales and co-ordinated by Keep Wales Tidy, recognises people who go the extra mile to keep Wales looking beautiful.

The school collected the award in the new community category for its "New Arrivals" project. The project creates opportunities for students who are not first language English speakers to take part in environmental activities, such as clean up campaigns and planting bulbs while improving their language skills at the same time. The group are now discussing ways of best using the prize money for the next phase of their environmental improvement work.

Successful crackdown on dog fouling

AN initiative which tackles dog waste on the city's streets and parks has already had a positive impact according to statistics.

The project, a joint partnership between Cardiff Council and South Wales Police, has lead to 42 dog owners being issued with Fixed Penalty Fines (FPNs) since the scheme came into force in November 2012, compared to just one that was issued the previous year.

Cabinet Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier said: "Dog fouling is a national problem faced by many local authorities but Cardiff is increasing the number of Council and Police personnel able to directly deal with offenders from 25 to 180.

"This increased officer presence means we can tackle the problem in communities without increasing public expenditure and I hope residents will feel empowered to report incidents which in turn will help to improve local environmental quality."

The initiative is providing Park Rangers and Police Constable Support Officers (PCSO) with training in order to enforce the law and issue fixed penalty notices (FPN's) for this highly anti-social offence.

Councillor Govier added: "From the start, this administration has stipulated we will not tolerate littering and the leaving of dog waste in our communities. Already the number of FPNs for general litter and dog fouling offences are up by 74 per cent and prosecutions are also up well over 50 per cent.

"The launch of our latest litter campaign, The Usual Suspects, aims to identify the types of litter and waste that blight our city and costs the tax payer £7m a year to clean.

"Dog mess along with general litter, cigarette butts, chewing gum and fly-tipping are seen all too regularly on our streets. We have demonstrated we are serious about making a difference to the quality of people's lives as well as making the culprits realise this behaviour is not acceptable and they will be punished if caught."
